Launching the Cleantech Decade Together

We, CleanTech Business Club Members & Partners want our families, our businesses, our communities, our countries and our planet to thrive.

We know that the 2020 decade provides unprecedented opportunities to overcome the climate challenge. Like you, we are faced with challenges related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Cleantech Business Club is taking immediate action with the #TogetherWeAreStronger Initiative, to learn from the COVID-19 crisis and emerge collectively with a positive, post-pandemic cleantech disruption, creating millions of jobs globally and a more free, prosperous and safer world for the people and the planet.

WE ARE ENTERING THE MOST DYNAMIC DECADE IN MODERN HISTORY

- * Convergence of cleantech with other disruptive technologies such as Internet of Things, blockchain, artificial intelligence and machine learning is well under way in all energy sectors; in a number of industries, we are about to reach tipping points within the next two years that will lead to a new paradigm of the world
- * The COVID-19 pandemic demonstrates that we humans are able to adapt and adjust to turbulent changes, and even while being physically separated we are able to work together while creating joint resilience
- * New forms of partnerships (private, private-public, intergovernmental) can emerge, everywhere, to implement available technologies and invest at competitive scale
- * Citizens, communities, businesses and countries can invest in a new world, creating millions of jobs and a better quality of life and can bring a freer, more prosperous, self-reliant and safer world for all, while achieving the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) for the planet

Notwithstanding the COVID-19 crisis, the cleantech transformation will happen for purely economic reasons. But it can and it must be accelerated with inspired political leadership and policies targeted to 2030. This decade can bring about as much progress as the world has experienced in centuries. Everyone has something to contribute to this transformation for the benefit of all.

This is why we agreed to unite in promoting joint actions for The CleanTech Decade.

Our #Declaration2030 is a call to all to unite and together transform our planet, now.

We urge political decision-makers that while mobilizing capital for stimulus programs to restart our economies, they shall align those investments with cleantech opportunities, and the cleantech business community is ready to work together to this end.

We, CleanTech Business Club Members & Partners: industry leaders, the financial & investor community, corporations, small enterprises, energy companies and utilities, political leaders and decision-makers and public opinion influencers are ready to achieve this ambitious but achievable goal.

Together we are more effective than apart.
